They Said He Was a Spy for the CIA

By JAMES F. DRONEY

"An even more valuable national asset is our reservoir of dedicated men and women — not only on our college campuses but in every age group—to contribute their skills, their efforts and a part of their lives to the fight for world order." John F. Kennedy, Washington, Jan. 29, 1961.

PUNO, Peru—You fly high over the Andes from Lima to reach Puno almost 1000 miles away.

The flight is in a DC-4 and the chamber is not pressurized. As you sweep over the Andes peak — some 20,000 to 22,000 feet high—you put a mask to your face and suck in the oxygen the thin atmosphere at this height lacks.

Below is principally the barren brownness of the
